Crypto asset trading involves a high degree of risk. The crypto asset market is new to many and unproven and may have the potential to not grow as expected. Currently, there is relatively small use of crypto assets in the retail and commercial marketplace in comparison to relatively large use by speculators, thus contributing to price volatility that could adversely affect an investment in crypto assets. In order to participate in the trading of crypto assets, you should be capable of evaluating the merits and risks of the investment and be able to bear the economic risk of losing your entire investment.

Performance

Past performance is not an indication or guarantee of future performance of a product or underlying asset. The value of any asset may be subject to fluctuations and, in some circumstances, investors may not recover the original amount invested. Exchange rate fluctuations may also cause the value of an investment to rise or fall.

Conflicts of Interest

From time to time, Amun and its affiliates may, for their own account or for the account of others, take positions in securities, currencies, financial instruments or other assets referenced on this Website. They may buy or sell these assets, act as market makers, and simultaneously operate as seller or as purchaser. The trading or hedging activities of Amun and its affiliates may influence the price of an asset and may influence whether or not the relevant barrier level is reached (if such a level exists).
